Press release

Guillaume Sauvé appointed Chairman of Eiffage Génie Civil and Chairman of Eiffage Métal

Guillaume Sauvé has been appointed Chairman of Eiffage Génie Civil and Chairman of Eiffage Métal and their international operations.

He will therefore be appointed to the Executive Committee of Eiffage.

Born in 1972, Guillaume Sauvé graduated from École Polytechnique, the École des Ponts et Chaussées and the Collège des Ingénieurs in Paris. He has worked since 2015 as Director of Engineering and Urban Development of the ADP group heading investment projects in Parisian airports. He joined the ADP group in 2002 as Managing Director of the Aéroports de Paris Ingénierie (ADPI) branch in Dubai. He was then named Project Director, during which time he led the renovation of Terminal 1 and the construction of the Satellite 4 building at Paris-Charles-de-Gaulle airport, before he was promoted to Director of Delegated Contracting Authority in 2008, then Chairman & Chief Executive Officer of ADPI in 2011.
