Eiffage Génie Civil gathers its maintenance and repair entities under the Ævia brand

Eiffage Génie Civil has launched the Ævia brand, under which it will now be grouping all its maintenance, repair and reinforcement activities.

The management and maintenance of structures are major challenges for ensuring user safety and the longevity of assets. Eiffage Génie Civil, through Ævia, aims to unify and specialise its market approach to offer its clients, public and private alike, a full range of know-how and tailored products, whether for engineering and industrial structures or buildings.

The Ævia brand will bring together teams:

- dedicated to BSI[®], the ultra-high-performance fibred concrete developed by Eiffage;
- from Via-Pontis and Résirep, responsible for projects in the northern half and southern half of France respectively;
- from Etic, specialising in the design and installation of high-tech equipment for engineering structures;
- from TSV, specialising in structure jacking and sliding.

These teams offer operational expertise in challenging environments where traffic must be kept moving or on occupied industrial sites, which will enable Eiffage Génie Civil to make Ævia the benchmark for asset conservation and improvement.
