on the avenue de la Grande Armée in Paris

Eiffage, through its subsidiary Eiffage Construction, has been awarded by the Gecina group the contract to renovate the former Peugeot headquarters – renamed “l1ve” – located at 75 avenue de la Grande Armée in Paris.

Eiffage Construction will lead the project as general contractor, with design by the architects Baumschlager Eberle, to complete major refurbishment of a 33,500 sq.m space over nine floors and six basement levels.

Works began in December following an initial 10-month study phase, with delivery expected in 2022.

Gecina aims to make l1ve the new standard in well-being and performance, including benefits and services to enhance day-to-day activities for site users: business centre, auditorium, indoor gardens, balconies and terraces, health and well-being spaces, and a company restaurant.

The operation aims to achieve the following labels and certifications: HQE BD (Exceptional level), LEED® (at least Gold), WELL, BiodiverCity® and WiredScore®.

L1ve is currently a finalist in the MIPIM Awards 2020, in the “Best Futura Project” category.
